I. NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. This suit brings claims on behalf of indirect purchasers (“End-Payers” or “Plaintiffs”) for injunctive relief and to recoup overcharges that resulted from an unlawful agreement among Defendants to allocate customers, rig bids, and fix, raise and/or stabilize the prices of generic amitriptyline hydrochloride 10, 25, 50, 75, 100, or 150mg tablets (“Amitriptyline”).

2. Recognized as an “Essential Medicine” by the World Health Organization, Amitriptyline is prescribed to treat symptoms of depression as well as chronic pain from migraine headaches and other medical syndromes. Amitriptyline is a well-established medication that was first approved for patient use in 1961. Generic versions of Amitriptyline have been available in the United States since the 1970s.

3. For many years, competition among the small group of sellers of generic Amitriptyline kept prices stable, at low levels. But starting in May 2014, Defendants, who dominate the market for Amitriptyline, abruptly raised their respective Amitriptyline prices by an average of 1,500%, with increases of almost 2,400% for one dosage strength. Prices remain at supracompetitive levels today—Amitriptyline now costs approximately 1,240% more than it cost before the price hike. In fact, the U.S. Government Accountability Office (“GAO”) identified Amitriptyline as having “experienced an extraordinary price increase.”¹

4. The price increases imposed by Defendant manufacturers of Amitriptyline cannot be explained by supply shortages or any other market feature or shock. Nor were they the result of unilateral business decisions. Instead, the significant increases in the prices of Amitriptyline were the result of an illegal agreement among Defendants to fix prices.

5. The market for Amitriptyline was highly conducive to collusion, as it was controlled almost exclusively by the Defendants and was subject to high barriers to entry, including substantial manufacturing costs and regulatory requirements. Because Amitriptyline is a medically necessary product for which reasonable substitutes are not available and demand is inelastic, Defendants were able to raise prices in concert without suffering corresponding losses in sales volume. Federal regulations require Defendants' Amitriptyline products to contain the same type and amount of active pharmaceutical ingredient and to be therapeutically equivalent to one another. They are therefore interchangeable commodity products. Interchangeability facilitates collusion, as cartel members can easily monitor and detect deviations from a price-fixing or market allocation agreement.

6. Because purchasers choose whose Amitriptyline product to buy based primarily on price, and unilateral price increases generally result in loss of market share, it would have been economically irrational for any one Defendant to dramatically raise its prices without assurance that its competitors would do the same.

7. As alleged below, Defendants implemented their conspiracy through numerous meetings and communications, including trade association meetings held by the Generic Pharmaceutical Association (now the Association for Accessible Medicines) ("GPhA"), the National Association of Chain Drug Stores ("NACDS"), the Efficient Collaborative Retail Marketing ("ECRM"), the Healthcare Distribution Management Association (now called the Healthcare Distribution Alliance) ("HDMA"), and the Minnesota Multistate Contracting Alliance for Pharmacy ("MMCAP"), among others.

8. Defendants’ unlawful and anticompetitive conduct in the Amitriptyline market is part of a larger conspiracy or series of conspiracies involving numerous generic pharmaceuticals and pharmaceutical manufacturers.

9. Extreme and unprecedented price increases in the generic drug industry—like those imposed by the manufacturers of Amitriptyline—have prompted close scrutiny of the industry by the U.S. Congress, federal and state enforcement agencies, and private litigants.

10. An ongoing criminal investigation by the Antitrust Division of the U.S. Department of Justice (“DOJ”) has, to date, resulted in price-fixing guilty pleas from two senior executives at Heritage Pharmaceuticals, Inc. relating to the sale of generic drugs doxycycline hyclate and glyburide. But DOJ has made clear that its “investigation is ongoing”² and the evidence uncovered during the course of its investigation into those drugs also “implicates . . . a significant number of the Defendants . . . [and] a significant number of the drugs at issue” in this Multidistrict Litigation.³

11. The Attorney General for the State of Connecticut (“Connecticut AG”), whose office has been pursuing an investigation of the generic drug industry parallel to that of DOJ, confirms that its price-fixing investigation extends “way beyond the two drugs and the six companies. Way beyond We’re learning new things every day.”⁴ There is “compelling evidence of collusion and anticompetitive conduct across many compthat manufacture and market generic drugs in the United States [and] evidence of widespread participation in illegal conspiracies across the generic drug industry.”⁵

12. Manufacturers of generic Amitriptyline are implicated in these ongoing investigations; all three of the Defendants named here, Mylan, Par, and Sandoz have received a federal grand jury subpoena and/or an investigative demand from the Connecticut AG as part of the generic drug price-fixing investigations.

13. As end payers in the chain of pharmaceutical distribution, Plaintiffs bear the brunt of Defendants’ illegal conduct. Plaintiffs have paid many millions of dollars more than they would have in a competitive market for Amitriptyline.

14. Plaintiffs bring this action against Defendants on account of their past and ongoing violations of Sections 1 and 3 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. §§ 1, 3) and the state laws set forth below. Plaintiffs bring this action both individually and on behalf of (a) a national injunctive class of persons or entities in the United States and its territories who indirectly purchased, paid and/or provided reimbursement for some or all of the purchase price of Amitriptyline products manufactured by any Defendant, other than for resale, from May 2014 to the present (“Class Period”), and (b) a damages class of persons or entities in the states and territories identified herein who indirectly purchased, paid and/or provided reimbursement for some or all of the purchase price of Amitriptyline products manufactured by any Defendant, other than for resale, from May 2014 to the present.

II. ONGOING FEDERAL AND STATE INVESTIGATIONS

15. Now in its third year, the federal criminal investigation into generic drug price fixing has begun to bear fruit. On December 12 and 13, 2016, DOJ filed criminal charges against former Heritage executives Jeffrey Glazer (CEO) and Jason Malek (President). The government alleged that they conspired with others “to allocate customers, rig bids, and fix and maintain prices” of glyburide and doxycycline hyclate in violation of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. § 1).⁶

16. On January 9, 2017, Glazer and Malek pleaded guilty to those charges.⁷ Deputy Assistant Attorney General Brent Snyder of the Justice Department’s Antitrust Division explained: “These charges are an important step in correcting that injustice and in ensuring that generic pharmaceutical companies compete vigorously to provide these essential products at a price set by the market, not by collusion.”⁸ As they await sentencing, Glazer and Malek are cooperating with DOJ’s continuing investigation. More criminal charges and guilty pleas are expected to follow.⁹

17. Although initial public disclosures suggested that the federal and state investigations were focused on one or two drugs, it is now clear that both investigations are much, much broader. The investigations reportedly cover two dozen drugs and more than a dozen manufacturers.¹⁰ Press reports indicate that “[t]he Department of Justice (DoJ) believes price-fixing between makers of generic pharmaceuticals is widespread.”¹¹

18. According to one report, prosecutors see the investigation of the generic drug industry much like DOJ’s antitrust probe of the auto parts industry, which has morphed into DOJ’s largest criminal antitrust probe ever. See In re Automotive Parts Antitrust Litig., No. 2:12-md-02311 (E.D. Mich.). As in that case, prosecutors expect “to move from one drug to another in a similar cascading fashion.”¹²

19. DOJ and a federal grand jury empaneled in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania have focused on at least seventeen generic drug manufacturers as part of the growing investigation, including the Defendants here Mylan Inc. (“Mylan”), Par Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (“Par”), and Sandoz, Inc. (“Sandoz”), as well as: Actavis Holdco U.S., Inc. (“Actavis”); Aurobindo Pharma USA, Inc. (“Aurobindo”); Citron Pharma LLC (“Citron”); Dr. Reddy’s Laboratories, Inc. (“Dr. Reddy’s”); Heritage Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (“Heritage”); Impax Laboratories, Inc. (“Impax”); Lannett Company, Inc. (“Lannett”); Mayne Pharma, Inc.

(“Mayne”); Perrigo New York, Inc. (“Perrigo”); Sun Pharmaceutical Industries, Inc. (“Sun”); Taro Pharmaceuticals USA, Inc. (“Taro”); Teva Pharmaceuticals USA, Inc. (“Teva”); and Zydus Pharmaceuticals USA, Inc. (“Zydus”). And as recently as August 10, 2017, Pfizer, Inc. (“Pfizer”) also disclosed that DOJ is investigating its Greenstone generics business.¹³

20. The fact that these companies and/or their employees received subpoenas from a federal grand jury is significant. DOJ does not empanel grand juries lightly. The Antitrust Division Manual admonishes that “staff should consider carefully the likelihood that, if a grand jury investigation developed evidence confirming the alleged anticompetitive conduct, the Division would proceed with a criminal prosecution.” Accordingly, before a grand jury investigation proceeds, it requires a series of approvals, first by the relevant field chief, who then sends the request to the Antitrust Criminal Enforcement Division. “The DAAG [Deputy Assistant Attorney General] for Operations, the Criminal DAAG, and the Director of Criminal Enforcement will make a recommendation to the Assistant Attorney General[,]” who must give final approval and authorize all attorneys who will participate in the investigation.¹⁴

21. As Mark Rosman, former assistant chief of the National Criminal Enforcement Section of DOJ’s Antitrust Division, noted in an article on the “unusual” nature of the criminal subpoenas, “A DOJ investigation into the alleged exchange of pricing information in the pharmaceutical industry likely indicates that the agency anticipates uncovering criminal antitrust conduct in the form of price-fixing or customer allocation.”¹⁵

22. Another significant indication of criminal price fixing in the generic drug industry is that DOJ has received assistance from a privately-held company that came forward as a leniency applicant: “It is understood that Heritage is cooperating with prosecutors in exchange for amnesty from criminal prosecution under DOJ’s leniency program[.]”¹⁶ As explained on DOJ’s website, an applicant for amnesty “must admit its participation in a criminal antitrust violation involving price fixing, bid rigging, capacity restriction, or allocation of markets, customers, or sales or production volumes, before it will receive a conditional leniency letter.” The applicant must also establish that “[t]he confession of wrongdoing is truly a corporate act, as opposed to isolated confessions of individual executives or officials.”¹⁷

23. In addition to the federal criminal investigation, the Connecticut AG began an investigation in July 2014 into the dramatic price increases in generic drugs. Now joined by the Attorneys General of 43 other states and the District of Columbia, the Connecticut AG has filed a civil complaint in the U.S. District Court for the District of Connecticut alleging price fixing and customer allocation.¹⁸ Although the States’ present complaint focuses on two drugs

(doxycycline hyclate delayed release and glyburide), the States make clear that they have “uncovered wide-ranging conduct implicating numerous different drugs and competitors” and suggest that additional drugs and manufacturers will be added “at the appropriate time.”¹⁹

24. The publicly available version of the State AG Complaint is heavily redacted. Among the obscured portions are the contents of conspiratorial communications, which the Connecticut AG has described as “mind-boggling.”²⁰ The State AG Complaint explains that the generic drug industry is structured in a way that facilitates these types of collusive communications. “Generic drug manufacturers operate, through their respective senior leadership and marketing and sales executives, in a manner that fosters and promotes routine and direct interaction among their competitors.” This affords them opportunities to “exploit their interactions at various and frequent industry trade shows, customer conferences and other similar events, to develop relationships and sow the seeds for their illegal agreements.”²¹

25. The criminal informations and guilty pleas relating to Glazer and Malek, the grand jury subpoenas, and evidence divulged in the State AG Complaint are merely the tip of the iceberg. The government investigations have uncovered the existence of “a broad, well-coordinated and long-running series of schemes to fix the prices and allocate markets for a number of generic pharmaceuticals in the United States.”²²

26. It appears that all of the Defendants here are the targets of the federal antitrust investigation. In December 2014, Par Pharmaceutical Holdings, Inc. received a subpoena from the antitrust division of the United States Department of Justice concerning the company's pricing of digoxin and doxycycline. In December 2015, the State of Connecticut Office of Attorney General—which has also been investigating the pricing of doxycycline—issued a subpoena to Endo International—which owns Par—“requesting information regarding pricing of certain of its generic products, including . . . Amitriptyline Hydrochloride.”²³

27. Mylan has similarly disclosed that in December 2015, it also received a subpoena and interrogatories from the Connecticut Office of the Attorney General “relating to the marketing, pricing and sale of certain of the Company’s generic products”²⁴

28. In March 2016, Sandoz and Fougera Pharmaceuticals Inc. (a wholly-owned subsidiary of Sandoz) “received a subpoena from the Antitrust Division of the US Department of Justice (DoJ) requesting documents related to the marketing and pricing of generic pharmaceutical products...and related communications with competitors.”²⁵ Sandoz stated that it was cooperating with the investigation, which “it believes to be a part of a broader inquiry into industry practice.”

29. Plaintiffs do not yet have access to all of the information available to the government enforcement agencies. What is known is that in light of all the evidence described above, the large and unprecedented price increases for Amitriptyline cannot be explained by normal, competitive market forces. The explanation is collusion.

III. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

30. Plaintiffs bring Count One of this action under Section 16 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. § 26) for injunctive relief and costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys' fees, against Defendants for the injuries sustained by Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes described herein by reason of the violations of Sections 1 and 3 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. §§ 1, 3).

31. This action is also instituted under the antitrust, consumer protection, and common laws of various states and territories for damages and equitable relief, as described in Counts Two through Four below.

32. Jurisdiction is conferred upon this Court by 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1337 and by Section 16 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. § 26). In addition, jurisdiction is conferred upon this Court by 28 U.S.C. §§ 1332(d) and 1367.

33. Venue is proper in this District pursuant to 15 U.S.C. §§ 15(a) & 22; 28 U.S.C §§ 1391(b)-(d) and 1407; and the MDL Order dated April 6, 2017 (ECF No. 291), and because, during the Class Period, Defendants resided, transacted business, were found, or had agents in this District, and a substantial portion of the affected interstate trade and commerce described below has been carried out in this District. Venue is also proper in this District because the federal grand jury investigating the pricing of generic drugs is empaneled here and therefore it is likely that acts in furtherance of the alleged conspiracy took place here. According to DOJ guidelines, an "investigation should be conducted by a grand jury in a judicial district where venue lies for the offense, such as a district from or to which price-fixed sales were made or where conspiratorial communications occurred.”²⁶

34. This Court has personal jurisdiction over each Defendant because, inter alia, each Defendant: (a) transacted business throughout the United States, including in this District; (b) sold Amitriptyline throughout the United States, including in this District; (c) had substantial contacts with the United States, including in this District; (d) was engaged in an illegal scheme and nationwide price-fixing conspiracy that was directed at, had the intended effect of causing injury to, and did cause injury to persons residing in, located in, or doing business throughout the United States, including in this District; and/or (e) took overt action in furtherance of the conspiracy in this District or conspired with someone who did, and by doing so could reasonably have expected to be sued in this District. In addition, nationwide personal jurisdiction was authorized by Congress pursuant to the Clayton Act and by 28 U.S.C. § 1407.

allocate markets and customers for those products. As a result of the alleged conspiracy, SISC was injured in its business or property by reason of the violations of law alleged herein. SISC intends to continue purchasing and/or reimbursing for these drugs and will continue to be injured unless the Defendants are enjoined from their unlawful conduct as alleged herein.

38. Plaintiff Sergeants Benevolent Association of the Police Department of the City of New York Health and Welfare Fund (“SBA Fund”) is a citizen of the State of New York, and has its principal place of business at 35 Worth Street, New York, New York. It provides health care benefits, including prescription drug benefits, to participants and their dependents. During the Class Period, SBA Fund indirectly purchased and paid for some or all of the purchase price for one or more generic Amitriptyline prescriptions, other than for resale, manufactured by the Defendants. During the Class Period, SBA Fund paid and reimbursed more for these products than it would have absent Defendants’ anticompetitive conduct to fix, raise, maintain, and stabilize the prices and allocate markets and customers for these products. As a result of the alleged conspiracy, SBA Fund was injured in its business or property by reasons of the violations of law alleged herein. SBA Fund intends to continue paying and/or reimbursing for these drugs and will continue to be injured unless the Defendants are enjoined from their unlawful conduct as alleged herein.

39. Plaintiff Unite Here Health (“UHH”) is a multi-employer trust fund composed of union and employer representatives, whose mission is to provide health benefits that offer high quality, affordable healthcare to its participants at a better value and with a better service than is otherwise available in the market. Headquartered in Aurora, Illinois, UHH has served union workers in the hospitality, food service, and gaming industries for the past several decades. During the Class Period, UHH indirectly purchased and paid for some or all of the purchase price for one or more generic Amitriptyline prescriptions, other than for resale, manufactured by the Defendants. UHH made such payments and/or reimbursements in California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas, and Puerto Rico. During the Class Period, UHH purchased and paid more for these products than it would have absent Defendants’ anticompetitive conduct to fix, raise, maintain, and stabilize the prices and allocate markets and customers for these products. As a result of the alleged conspiracy, UHH was injured in its business or property by reason of the violations of law alleged herein. UHH intends to continue purchasing and/or reimbursing for these drugs and will continue to be injured unless the Defendants are enjoined from their unlawful conduct as alleged herein.

V. DEFENDANTS

Mylan Defendants

40. Defendant Mylan Inc. is a Pennsylvania corporation with its principal place of business in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania.

41. Defendant Mylan Pharmaceuticals, Inc. is a West Virginia corporation with its principal place of business in Morgantown, West Virginia. It is a subsidiary of Mylan Inc. Mylan Pharmaceuticals Inc. is registered with the Pennsylvania Department of State as a foreign corporation and maintains a registered agent in Pennsylvania.

42. Mylan Inc. and Mylan Pharmaceuticals Inc. are wholly-owned subsidiaries of Mylan N.V., a Dutch pharmaceutical company. Unless addressed individually, Mylan Inc. and Mylan Pharmaceuticals, Inc. are collectively referred to herein as “Mylan.” During the Class Period, Mylan sold generic Amitriptyline to customers in this District and other locations in the United States.

Par

43. Defendant Par Pharmaceutical Inc. (“Par”) is a New York corporation with its principal place of business in Chestnut Ridge, New York. Par is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Endo International plc (“Endo”), an Irish corporation with its principal place of business located in Dublin, Ireland. In September 2015, Endo completed an acquisition of Par Pharmaceuticals Holdings, Inc. and combined it with its existing generics subsidiary, Qualitest Pharmaceuticals (“Qualitest”), naming the segment Par Pharmaceutical, Inc. Par is registered with the Pennsylvania Department of State as a foreign corporation and maintains a registered agent in Pennsylvania. During the Class Period, Par sold generic Amitriptyline to customers in this District and other locations in the United States.

Sandoz

44. Defendant Sandoz, Inc. (“Sandoz”) is a Colorado corporation with its principal place of business in Princeton, New Jersey. Sandoz is a subsidiary of Novartis AG, a global pharmaceutical company based in Basel, Switzerland. Sandoz is registered with the Pennsylvania Department of State as a foreign corporation and maintains a registered agent in Pennsylvania. During the Class Period, Sandoz sold generic Amitriptyline in this District and other locations in the United States.

VI. CO-CONSPIRATORS

45. Various other persons, firms, corporations and entities have participated as co-conspirators with Defendants in the violations and conspiracy alleged herein. In order to engage in the violations alleged herein, these co-conspirators have performed acts and made statements in furtherance of the antitrust violations and conspiracies alleged herein. Plaintiffs may amend this Complaint to allege the names of additional co-conspirators as they are discovered.

VII. INTERSTATE AND INTRASTATE TRADE AND COMMERCE

46. During the Class Period, Defendants sold and distributed Amitriptyline in a continuous and uninterrupted flow of interstate commerce to customers throughout the United States, including in this District.

47. Defendants' and their co-conspirators' conduct, including the marketing and sale of Amitriptyline, took place within the United States and has had, and was intended to have, a direct, substantial, and reasonably foreseeable anticompetitive effect upon interstate commerce within the United States.

48. Defendants' anticompetitive conduct occurred in part in trade and commerce within the states and territories set forth herein, and also had substantial intrastate effects in that, inter alia, retailers within each state and territory were foreclosed from offering less expensive Amitriptyline to Plaintiffs inside each respective state and territory. The foreclosure of these less expensive generic products directly impacted and disrupted commerce for Plaintiffs within each state and territory and forced Plaintiffs to pay supracompetitive prices.

VIII. BACKGROUND OF THE GENERIC DRUG INDUSTRY

A. Generic Drugs Are Commodity Products

49. Approximately 88% of all pharmaceutical prescriptions in the United States are filled with a generic drug.²⁷ In 2015, generic drug sales in the United States were estimated at $74.5 billion.²⁸

50. According to the U.S. Food & Drug Administration (“FDA”), a generic drug is “the same as a brand name drug in dosage, safety, strength, how it is taken, quality, performance, and intended use.”²⁹ Once the FDA approves a generic drug as “therapeutically equivalent” to a brand drug, the generic version “can be expected to have equal effect and no difference when substituted for the brand name product.”³⁰

51. In a competitive market, generic drugs cost substantially less than branded drugs. The U.S. Congressional Budget Office (“CBO”) estimates that, “[o]n average, the retail price of a generic drug is 75 percent lower than the retail price of a brand-name drug.”³¹ And that may be conservative. According to a Federal Trade Commission (“FTC”) study, in a “mature generic market, generic prices are, on average, 85% lower than the pre-entry branded drug price.”³²

Mature generic markets—like Amitriptyline—typically have several manufacturers that compete for sales, hence keeping prices in check.

52. Generic drug price competition provides enormous savings to consumers, pharmacies, and other drug purchasers, as well as to private health insurers, health and welfare funds, and state Medicaid programs. Indeed, one study found that the use of generic medicines saved the United States healthcare system $254 billion in 2014 alone, and $1.68 trillion between 2005 and 2014.³³

53. The significant cost savings provided by generic drugs motivated Congress to enact the Drug Price Competition and Patent Term Restoration Act of 1984, more commonly known as the “Hatch-Waxman Act” (Pub. L. No. 98-417, 98 Stat. 1585). The Act streamlines the regulatory hurdles that generic drug manufacturers have to clear prior to marketing and selling generic drugs. Generic drug manufacturers may obtain FDA approval in an expedited fashion through the filing of an Abbreviated New Drug Application (“ANDA”) that establishes that its product is bioequivalent to the branded counterpart.

54. Since passage of the Hatch-Waxman Act, every state has adopted substitution laws requiring or permitting pharmacies to substitute generic drug equivalents for branded drug prescriptions (unless the prescribing physician specifically orders otherwise by writing “dispense as written” or similar language on the prescription).

55. Because each generic is readily substitutable for another generic of the same brand drug, pricing is the main differentiating feature. As recognized by the FTC, “generic drugs are commodity products” and, as a consequence of that, are marketed “primarily on the basis of price.”³⁴ In a competitive market, generic manufacturers cannot significantly increase prices (or maintain high prices in the face of a competitor’s lower price) without losing a significant volume of sales.

56. It is well-established that competition among generic manufacturers drives down price. Before generic drugs enter a market, the brand drug has a monopoly and captures 100% of sales. When lower-priced generics become available, the brand drug quickly loses market share as purchasers switch to the less expensive alternatives. Over time, the price of a generic drug approaches the manufacturers’ marginal costs. As illustrated in the following chart, the price of a generic drug tends to decrease as more generic drug manufacturers enter the market:

57. When new entrants join a competitive generic market, they typically will price their product below the prevailing market price in order to gain market share. A recent government report confirmed this phenomenon in interviews with generic manufacturers:

³⁴ FTC, Authorized Generic Drugs: Short-Term Effects and Long-Term Impact (Aug. 2011), available at <http://www.ftc.gov/os/2011/08/2011genericdrugreport.pdf>

“manufacturers said that if a company is bringing a generic drug into an established drug market, it typically offers a price that is lower than the current market price in order to build its customer base. Manufacturers also said that as each new manufacturer enters an established generic drug market the price of that generic will fall, with one manufacturer noting that it is typically a 20 percent price decline per entrant.”³⁵

58. When there are multiple generic manufacturers in an established generic market—as with Amitriptyline—prices should remain low and stable, and should not increase absent a market disruption or, as is the case here, anticompetitive conduct.

B. Pricing in the U.S. Prescription Drug Industry

59. In simple terms, the generic pharmaceutical supply chain flows as follows: Manufacturers sell drugs to wholesalers. Wholesalers sell drugs to pharmacies. Pharmacies dispense the drugs to consumers, who pay the full retail price if they are uninsured, or a portion of the retail price (e.g., a co-pay or co-insurance) if they are insured. The insured consumers’ health plans then pay the pharmacies additional amounts that are specified in agreements between them and the pharmacies. These agreements are sometimes arranged by middlemen known as Pharmacy Benefit Managers (“PBMs”).

60. Because the prices paid by purchasers of generic drugs differ at different levels of the market and most of the transactions occur between private parties according to terms that are not publicly disclosed, the price of a given drug is not always obvious. Market-wide pricing for a given drug, however, may be observed through the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (“CMS”) survey of National Average Drug Acquisition Cost (“NADAC”). NADAC was

“designed to create a national benchmark that is reflective of the prices paid by retail community pharmacies to acquire prescription . . . drugs.”³⁶ “NADAC is a simple average of the drug acquisition costs submitted by retail pharmacies.”³⁷ In effect, NADAC is “a single national average.”³⁸ Thus, NADAC is one way to track general price trends in the marketplace.

61. While NADAC provides the average price level across all manufacturers of a given drug, other prices are manufacturer specific. Drug manufacturers typically report benchmarks—like WACs (Wholesale Acquisition Costs)—for their drugs, which are then published in compendia used by participants in the pharmaceutical industry. The benchmarks are not actual transaction prices; rather, they are the manufacturer’s reported list price. Accordingly, WAC prices do not take into account discounts that may be provided, e.g., for volume sales.³⁹

62. The amount that an end-payer will pay a pharmacy for a generic drug typically is determined with reference to a benchmark or list price like a WAC. The end-payer pays the pharmacy an amount based on the manufacturer’s list price for the drug, plus a small mark-up or dispensing fee. Over time, third-party payers and PBMs have learned that manufacturers’ list prices for some generic drugs can be substantially higher than the actual costs incurred by certain pharmacies to acquire the drugs. As a consequence, end-payers were paying more than simply the acquisition cost plus a small amount.

³⁹ Average Wholesale Price (“AWP”) is another benchmark price that is used in the pharmaceutical industry. And QuintilesIMS’s National Sales Perspectives (“NSP”) is another measure of manufacturer specific pricing. NSP data “captures 100% of the total U.S. pharmaceutical market, measuring sales at actual transaction prices rather than using an average wholesale price” and includes sales by manufacturers into various outlets. IMS Institute for Healthcare Informatics, HSRN Data Brief: National Sales Perspectives at 1, available at https://www.imshealth.com/files/web/IMSH%20Institute/NSP_Data_Brief-.pdf.

63. To combat this, some third-party payers and PBMs have implemented their own proprietary benchmark prices—Maximum Allowable Costs (“MACs”)—that set the amounts they will pay pharmacies for some generic drugs. A MAC caps the amount that an end-payer will pay a pharmacy for a given strength and dosage of a generic drug, regardless of the pharmacy’s acquisition costs.

64. Third-party payers and PBMs set the MAC of a drug based on several factors, one of which is believed to be the lowest acquisition cost in the market for that generic drug. So, for example, if there are three manufacturers offering the same generic drug at three different prices, a PBM or third-party payer might set the MAC price at or near the lowest of the three prices. A pharmacy could elect to buy from a manufacturer with a higher price, but upon resale to a customer of the PBM or third-party payer, the pharmacy would only be paid the MAC price.

65. Drug purchasers always should have an incentive to buy the least expensive available drug. Because MAC prices further incentivize pharmacies to choose the lowest priced option, a generic manufacturer that increases its price for a drug should expect to lose sales to a competitor with a lower price. Consequently, in the absence of coordinated pricing activity among generic manufacturers, an individual manufacturer should not be able to significantly increase its price (or maintain a higher price in the face of a significantly lower competitor price) without incurring the loss of a significant volume of sales. A manufacturer can only raise its price if it knows its competitors will raise their prices, too, e.g., if they are conspiring.

IX. THE GENERIC AMITRIPTYLINE CONSPIRACY

A. Congressional Responses to Generic Drug Price Increases

66. In addition to the investigations by DOJ and the Connecticut AG, Congress has raised concerns about the alarming price spikes for numerous generic pharmaceuticals. These concerns were prompted by the very real hardship suffered by end-payers as a result of the unprecedented price increases. As noted above, the GAO identified Amitriptyline as one of the drugs that had experienced extraordinary price increases.

67. In the Fall of 2014, Senator Bernie Sanders and Representative Elijah Cummings requested information from manufacturers of 10 drugs that had experienced extraordinary price increases. Mylan, and Par were among those manufacturers. Six of those drugs, including Amitriptyline, are now the subject of complaints in this MDL.⁴⁰

68. In November 2014, Senator Sanders conducted a hearing entitled, “Why Are Some Generic Drugs Skyrocketing in Price?” (“Senate Hearing”). Various witnesses discussed the price hikes for generic drugs, but none of the industry executives that were invited to testify appeared.⁴¹

69. Senator Sanders and Representative Cummings followed up with a request to the Office of the Inspector General of the Department of Health & Human Services (“OIG”), asking it to investigate the effect that price increases of generic drugs have had on the Medicare and Medicaid programs. The request letter identified the 100 mg and 150 mg dosages of generic

Amitriptyline specifically.⁴² The OIG issued its report in December 2015, confirming that price increases for numerous generic drugs far out-stripped inflation.⁴³

70. In response to another Congressional request—this one from Senators Susan Collins, Claire McCaskill, Bill Nelson and Mark Warner—the United States Government Accountability Office (“GAO”) issued a report in August 2016 entitled “Generic Drugs Under Medicare: Part D Generic Drug Prices Declined Overall, but Some Had Extraordinary Price Increases.”⁴⁴ The GAO investigation confirmed that in a competitive market, generic drug prices decline and remain stable, absent shortages or other market disruptions.⁴⁵ And this was the case for most generics. But it identified numerous drugs that experienced “extraordinary” increases, which it defined as an increase of more than 100%.⁴⁶ Amitriptyline was identified in the GAO Report as experiencing an “extraordinary price increase.”⁴⁷

B. The Amitriptyline Market

71. Recognized as an “Essential Medicine” by the World Health Organization, Amitriptyline is prescribed to treat symptoms of depression as well as chronic pain from migraine headaches and other medical syndromes. Amitriptyline is a tricyclic antidepressant, which were among the earliest antidepressants developed. These drugs ease depression by altering brain chemistry to increase levels of the neurotransmitters norepinephrine and serotonin, which are known to regulate mood. Amitriptyline is one of the most frequently prescribed tricyclic antidepressants in the United States.

72. The market for Amitriptyline is mature, and Defendants that operate in the market can only gain market share by competing on price.

73. Amitriptyline is the generic version of the brand name drug Elavil, a tricyclic antidepressant approved for sale by AstraZeneca by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration in 1961.⁴⁸ AstraZeneca discontinued this brand version in 2003.⁴⁹ Other manufacturers also marketed branded generic versions of the drug, such as Amitid, Amitril, and Endep, but each of these had been discontinued by the late 2000s.

74. Generic versions of Amitriptyline have been available for purchase in the United States since the 1970s.⁵⁰ At the time of Defendants' price increases in May 2014, only the Defendants had active approvals from the FDA to sell Amitriptyline. Accord Healthcare entered the market several months after the price hikes. According to the FDA's Orange Book, only the Defendants and Accord currently have FDA approval to sell Amitriptyline.

75. At all relevant times, Defendants had substantial market power with respect to Amitriptyline. Defendants exercised this power to maintain supracompetitive prices for Amitriptyline without losing so many sales as to make the elevated price unprofitable.

76. Defendants sold Amitriptyline at prices in excess of marginal costs, in excess of a competitive price, and enjoyed high profit margins.

C. Amitriptyline Price Increases

77. Competition for Amitriptyline has caused prices to stabilize and remain relatively low from at least January 2011 until Defendants raised prices in May 2014. Defendants' May 2014 price increases represented a departure from the stable pricing of prior years and from ordinary pricing practices, and are indicative of collusion.

78. NADAC data for Amitriptyline show the low and stable prices of Amitriptyline characteristic of the market prior to the Defendants' price hikes, and the huge spike in price that occurred abruptly in May 2014. Since that time, Defendants have continued to charge supracompetitive prices.

79. As the charts illustrate, for several years prior to Defendants' price increases the prices Amitriptyline remained flat and at competitive levels. Then, starting in May of 2014, the average price of Amitriptyline abruptly increased by approximately 1,500%, with certain dosages increasing as much as 2,400% over the same time period.

80. The market-wide Amitriptyline price increases are the result of the Defendants raising their prices at substantially the same time to substantially similar levels in mid-2014.

81. The following graphs show the Defendants' WAC prices. These graphs, which use data from IMS Health, depict Defendants' collusive behavior: beginning in mid-2014, Mylan, Par, and Sandoz each raised their WAC prices to essentially the same level.

82. The following charts—which rely on WAC data from Gold Standard—similarly show Defendants coordinate WAC pricing:⁵¹

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

84. The following graphs show the IMS NSP prices charged by Defendants for Amitriptyline.

85. Defendants' price increases for Amitriptyline resulted in corresponding increases to the prices paid by Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Classes. Corresponding increases in Amitriptyline's transactional prices demonstrate that increased WAC prices translate to increases in the prices paid by End-Payers.

86. No competitive justifications explain these abrupt shifts in pricing conduct.

87. The price increases cannot be attributed to the need to fund research and development. Generic pharmaceutical firms do not incur the large research and development costs that brand firms absorb in developing new drugs. Moreover, the costs associated with developing and obtaining FDA approval for Amitriptyline were incurred more than 50 years ago when the drug was first introduced to the market.

88. Defendants' enormous price increases were not due to supply disruptions. With regard to drug shortages, federal law requires drug manufacturers to report potential shortages to the FDA, the reasons therefor, and the expected duration of the shortage.⁵³ Amitriptyline is not included on the FDA's list of Current and Resolved Drug Shortages and Discontinuations Reported to FDA. Amitriptyline has not appeared in the American Society of Health-System Pharmacists Current Shortage Bulletins since July 3, 2012, and it does not appear on the list of Resolved Shortage Bulletins (which includes drug shortages dating back to August 2010). There were also no significant decreases in Defendants' overall sales volume that might indicate a shortage in the availability of Amitriptyline's active ingredient.

89. Changes in demand for Amitriptyline also do not justify the price increases. In 2012, Amitriptyline was added to the American Geriatrics Society's Beers list of drugs that pose a high risk of adverse effects in seniors.⁵⁴ Seniors taking Amitriptyline risk experiencing strong anticholinergic effects, such as confusion, blurred vision, drowsiness, and hallucination. When prescription drugs are classified as high risk, doctors tend to prescribe them to seniors less, causing total demand to decline. Lower total demand generally causes prices to drop or remain stable, assuming supply does not also substantially decline. Here, however, no apparent drop in demand or supply would explain the dramatic increase in Amitriptyline prices.

90. Defendants' Amitriptyline price increases are also not explained by the entry or exit of competitors from the marketplace. No significant sellers entered or left the Amitriptyline market in the months preceding the price increases. Prior to the price increases, the same group of manufacturers—the Defendants in this case—had been selling Amitriptyline at the same relatively low prices for at least three years.

91. Instead, anticompetitive activity explains the skyrocketing Amitriptyline prices. As Richard Evans at Sector & Sovereign Research recently wrote: “A plausible explanation [for price increases of generic drugs] is that generic manufacturers, having fallen to near historic low levels of financial performance, are cooperating to raise the prices of products whose characteristics—low sales due to either very low prices or very low volumes—accommodate price inflation.”⁵⁵

D. Activities with Respect to the Amitriptyline Conspiracy

92. Defendants engaged in a conspiracy to raise and fix the prices of Amitriptyline. Defendants reached agreement to raise their prices, and beginning in May 2014 implemented these price hikes as described above. This pricing behavior marked a drastic departure from Defendants' previous pricing practices with respect to Amitriptyline, and it had the intended and actual effect of causing Plaintiffs and the other members of the proposed Class to pay artificially inflated prices above prices that would have existed if a competitive market had determined prices for Amitriptyline.

93. The price increases closely followed Defendants' participation in the 2014 Annual Meeting of the NACDS in Scottsdale, Arizona. According to NACDS records, representatives of Endo, Mylan, Par, and Sandoz attended the meeting. In the months prior to implementing their agreement, Defendants also attended the annual meetings of the Generic Pharmaceutical Association and Efficient Collaborative Retail Marketing in February 2014.

94. In a competitive market, sellers have incentives to cut prices to maintain or increase market share. It would be economically irrational for an individual seller to drastically increase prices without assurances that its rivals would do the same. Absent such assurances, the seller would risk a loss of market share that would more than offset the higher prices it was charging. Defendants knew that they would not lose market share, however, because they had agreed to each raise prices so that customers had no cheaper source of supply and had no choice but to pay the skyrocketing prices for Amitriptyline. As such, increasing prices would be economically irrational for a single Defendant, but increasing prices together as a result of collusion, however, proved extremely profitable for Defendants.

95. In fact, another company, Accord Healthcare, entered the Amitriptyline market a few months after Defendants' price hikes, subsequently lowered its prices, and increased its market share. The fact that Accord was able to enter the market and capture market share by undercutting the Defendants' prices shows that it would not have been economically rational for one company to raise its price without others doing the same, lest they lose market share to lower-priced competitors.

E. Defendants' Conspiracy⁵⁶

96. During the Class Period, Defendants conspired, combined, and contracted to fix, maintain, and stabilize prices, rig bids, and engage in market allocation concerning Amitriptyline, which had the intended and actual effect of causing Plaintiffs and the other members of the proposed Class to pay artificially inflated prices above prices that would exist if a competitive market had determined prices for Amitriptyline.

97. Beginning in May 2014, Defendants collectively caused the price of Amitriptyline to increase dramatically. Defendants' conduct cannot be explained by normal competitive forces. It was the result of an agreement among Defendants to increase pricing and restrain competition for the sale of Amitriptyline in the United States. The agreement was furthered by discussions held at meetings and industry events hosted by the GPhA, HDMA, NACDS, and ECRM as well as other meetings and communications.

98. To sustain a conspiracy, conspirators often communicate to ensure that all are adhering to the collective scheme. Here, such communications occurred primarily through (1) trade association meetings and conferences, (2) private meetings, dinners, and outings among smaller groups of employees of various generic drug manufacturers, and (3) individual private communications between and among Defendants' employees through use of the phone, electronic messaging, and similar means.

99. These secret, conspiratorial meetings, discussions, and communications helped to ensure that all Defendants agreed to participate in, implement, and maintain an unlawful bid rigging, price fixing, and market allocation scheme.

100. The industry intelligence-gathering reporting firm Policy and Regulatory Report has reportedly obtained information regarding the investigation of generic drug companies by DOJ and has indicated that DOJ is investigating the extent to which trade associations and industry conferences have been used as forums for collusion among competing generic drug companies.⁵⁷ The State AGs have similarly noted the centrality of trade associations and industry conferences in their investigation, stating that they have uncovered evidence that certain generic drug companies "routinely coordinated their schemes through direct interaction with their competitors at industry trade shows, customer conferences, and other events, as well as through direct email, phone, and text message communications."⁵⁸

101. Defendants were members of numerous trade associations, which they used to facilitate their conspiratorial communications and implement their anticompetitive scheme to raise, maintain, and stabilize the prices of Amitriptyline, and to engage in market allocation for Amitriptyline, including, but not limited to, GPhA, the NACDS, and HDMA. In addition, Defendants regularly attended industry events hosted by the ECRM.

102. The GPhA (now called the Association for Accessible Medicines) is the “leading trade association for generic drug manufacturers and distributors of prescription drugs.”⁵⁹ GPhA was formed in 2000 from the merger of three industry trade associations: the Generic Pharmaceutical Industry Association, the National Association of Pharmaceutical Manufacturers, and the National Pharmaceutical Alliance.

103. GPhA’s website touts, “[b]y becoming part of GPhA, you can participate in shaping the policies that govern the generic industry” and lists its “valuable membership services, such as business networking opportunities, educational forums, access to lawmakers and regulators, and peer-to-peer connections.”⁶⁰ GPhA’s “member companies supply approximately 90 percent of the generic prescription drugs dispensed in the U.S. each year.”

104. Defendants Mylan, Sandoz, and Par, were regular members of the GPhA during the Class Period, and Qualitest (which sold Amitriptyline) frequently attended GPhA meetings. Regular members “are corporations, partnerships or other legal entities whose primary United States business derives the majority of its revenues from sales of (1) finished dose drugs approved via ANDAs; (2) products sold as authorized generic drugs; (3) biosimilar/biogenic products; or (4) DESI products.”⁶¹

105. Several of Defendants’ high-ranking corporate officers have served on GPhA’s Board of Directors before and during the Class Period:

- a. 2012 Board of Directors: Tony Mauro, President of Mylan North America; Don DeGolyer, President and CEO of Sandoz;
- b. 2013 Board of Directors: Tony Mauro, President of Mylan North America; Don DeGolyer, President and CEO of Sandoz;

- e. 2016 Board of Directors: Heather Bresch, CEO of Mylan; Tony Pera, Chief Commercial Officer for Par Pharmaceuticals; and Peter Goldschmidt of Sandoz.

106. Former Heritage CEO, Jeffrey Glazer, who pleaded guilty to federal criminal charges relating to price fixing and other anticompetitive activity concerning generic drugs, also served on GPhA’s board of directors.

107. The NACDS is a national trade association representing chain community pharmacies. Its members include generic drug manufacturers, wholesalers, and retail chain pharmacies. NACDS holds regular industry events, including annual and regional conferences, which Defendants and other generic drug manufacturers attended, including the annual Total Store Expo.

108. The HDMA is a national trade association that represents “primary pharmaceutical distributors” which links the nation’s drug manufacturers and more than 200,000 pharmacies, hospitals, long-term care facilities, and clinics.⁶² HDA holds regular conferences where its members, including generic drug manufacturers, meet to discuss various issues affecting the pharmaceutical industry. HDMA members during the Class Period have included Defendants Mylan, Qualitest, and Sandoz.

109. According to its website, ECRM conducts Efficient Program Planning Sessions that are made up of one-on-one strategic meetings that connect decision makers in an effort to maximize time, grow sales, and uncover industry trends.

110. At annual meetings organized by ECRM, generic drug manufacturers have scheduled meetings with generic drug buyers at chain drug stores, supermarkets, mass merchants, wholesalers, distributors, and buy groups for independents.

111. Representatives of Defendants Qualitest (owned by Par's parent company Endo) and Sandoz attended ECRM's Efficient Program Planning Sessions.

112. As further set forth below, meetings and events hosted by the GPhA, HDMA, NACDS, and ECRM were frequently held during the Class Period and attended by high-level representatives from each Defendant, including employees with price-setting authority.

129. In 2015, and 2016, Defendants continued to regularly attend trade association meetings, conferences and events, including: (i) the February 9-11 GPhA Annual Meeting in Miami, Florida; (ii) [REDACTED] (iii) the April 14, 2015 HDMA Seventh Annual CEO Roundtable Fundraiser in New York City; (iv) the April 25-28, 2015 NACDS Annual Meeting in Palm Beach, Florida; (v) the June 7-10, 2015 HDMA BLC in San Antonio, Texas; (vi) the June 9-10, 2015 GPhA meeting in Bethesda, Maryland; (vii) the August 22-25, 2015 NACDS Total Store Expo in Denver, Colorado; (viii) the November 2-4, 2015 GPhA meeting Bethesda, Maryland; (ix) the December 3, 2015 NACDS 2015 Foundation Reception & Dinner; (x) the April 10-14, 2016 MMCAP meeting in Minneapolis, Minnesota; (xi) the April 12, 2016 HDMA Eighth Annual CEO Roundtable Fundraiser in New York; (xii) the April 16-19, 2016 NACDS 2016 Annual Meeting in Palm Beach, Florida; (xiii) the June 12-16, 2016 HDMA BLC in Colorado Springs, Colorado; (xiv) the August 6-9, 2016 NACDS 2016 Total Store Expo in Boston, Massachusetts; and (xv) the December 1, 2016 NACDS Foundation Reception & Dinner.

130. As uncovered in the State AGs' ongoing investigation, at these various conferences and trade shows, representatives from Defendants, as well as other generic drug manufacturers, discussed their respective businesses and customers. These discussions would occur at social events, including lunches, cocktail parties, dinners, and golf outings, that usually accompanied these conferences and trade shows. Defendants' employees used these opportunities to discuss and share upcoming bids, specific generic drug markets, pricing strategies and pricing terms in their contracts with customers.⁶³

131. In conjunction with meetings at conferences and trade shows, representatives of generic drug manufacturers get together separately, in more limited groups, allowing them to further meet face-to-face with their competitors and discuss their business. In fact, high-level

executives of many generic drug manufacturers get together periodically for what at least some of them refer to as “industry dinners.”⁶⁴

132. A large number of generic drug manufacturers, including Defendants are headquartered in close proximity to one another in New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania, or New York, giving them easier and more frequent opportunities to meet and collude. For example, in January 2014, at a time when or shortly before the prices of a number of generic drugs, including Amitriptyline, were soaring, at least thirteen high-ranking male executives, including CEOs, Presidents, and Senior Vice Presidents of various generic drug manufacturers, met at a steakhouse in Bridgewater, New Jersey.

133. Generic drug manufacturer employees also get together regularly for what is referred to as a “Girls’ Night Out” (“GNO”), or alternatively “Women in the Industry” meetings and dinners. During these GNOs, meetings and dinners, these employees meet with their competitors and discuss competitively sensitive information. Several different GNOs were held in 2015, including: (1) in Baltimore, Maryland in May, and (2) at the NACDS conference in August.

134. Through these various interactions, Defendants’ employees are often acutely aware of their competition and, more importantly, each other’s current and future business plans. This familiarity and opportunity often leads to agreements among competitors to fix prices or to allocate a given market so as to avoid competing with one another on price.

135. Defendants also routinely communicate and share information with each other about bids and pricing strategy. This can include forwarding bid packages received from a customer (e.g., a Request for Proposal or “RFP”) to a competitor, either on their own initiative, at the request of a competitor, or by contacting a competitor to request that the competitor share that type of information.

136. Additionally, Defendants share information regarding the terms of their contracts with customers, including various terms relating to pricing, price protection, and rebates. Defendants use this information from their competitors to negotiate potentially better prices or terms with their customers, which could be to the ultimate detriment of consumers.

F. Defendants’ Concerted Efforts to Increase Prices for Amitriptyline Yielded Supracompetitive Profits

137. Defendants’ collusive price increases provided them with artificially inflated profits—profits that were funded in part by end-payers of Amitriptyline.

G. Factors Increasing the Market's Susceptibility to Collusion

144. Publicly available information on the generic Amitriptyline market in the United States demonstrates that the market is susceptible to cartelization by Defendants. Factors that make a market susceptible to collusion include: (1) a high degree of industry concentration; (2) significant barriers to entry; (3) inelastic demand; (4) the lack of available substitutes for the goods involved; (5) a standardized product with a high degree of interchangeability between the products of cartel participants; and (6) intercompetitor contacts and communication.

1. Industry Concentration

145. A high degree of concentration facilitates the operation of a cartel because it makes it easier to coordinate behavior among co-conspirators.

146. From December 2010 through April 2014, Defendants' controlled about [REDACTED] the market. During the Class Period, Defendants continued to dominate the market with about a [REDACTED] share.

147. While the market for generic Amitriptyline is sufficiently concentrated to facilitate collusion, the years of low and stable pricing in the market establish that the number of manufacturers in the market was sufficient to drive competition. Absent collusion, prices would have remained at competitive levels.

148. No departures by manufacturers of Amitriptyline can explain the price increases.

149. Defendants have been able to maintain supracompetitive prices for Amitriptyline without significant loss of market share to non-conspirators. Thus, Defendants have oligopolistic market power in the market for Amitriptyline.

150. The magnitude of Defendants' price increases for Amitriptyline distinguishes them from non-collusive oligopolistic pricing. Non-collusive oligopolistic pricing would be expected to proceed incrementally, as manufacturers test the waters to see if competitors will follow a price increase. But here the increases are extreme—jumping as much as 2,400% in one fell swoop. Such extreme pricing moves are not rational in the absence of advance knowledge that competitors will join the increase.

2. Barriers to Entry

151. Supracompetitive pricing in a market normally attracts additional competitors who want to avail themselves of the high levels of profitability that are available. However, the presence of significant barriers to entry makes this more difficult and helps to facilitate the operation of a cartel.

152. There are significant capital, regulatory, and intellectual property barriers to entry in the generic Amitriptyline market that make such entry time-consuming and expensive. Among other things, prospective generic manufacturers must establish manufacturing processes sufficient to safely produce large amounts of bioequivalent product. The manufacturing facilities must follow the FDA's rigorous Current Good Manufacturing Practice regulations. Par's own 2015 Form 10-K states that its business is to develop and commercialize "generic drugs with limited competition, high barriers to entry and longer life cycles."

153. Start-up costs and regulatory oversight represent substantial barriers to entry in the generic Clobetasol market.

154. In addition to the substantial out-of-pocket costs required to bring a drug to market, the approval process for generic drugs takes significant time. As Kansas Senator Jerry Moran commented on September 21, 2016 during Congressional hearings on the FDA's role in the generic drug market, "[T]here are more than 4,000 generic drug applications currently awaiting approval, and the median time it takes for the FDA to approve a generic is now 47 months or nearly four years."⁷² This significant delay for new market entrants effectively precludes new competition from eroding the supracompetitive prices as a result of the conspiracy.

3. Demand Inelasticity

155. Price elasticity of demand is defined as the measure of responsiveness in the quantity demanded for a product as a result of change in price of the same product. It is a measure of how demand for a product reacts to a change in price. The basic necessities of life—food, water, and shelter—are examples of goods that experience nearly perfectly inelastic demand at or near the minimums necessary to sustain life. In other words, a person on the verge of dying of thirst will pay almost anything for water.

156. In order for a cartel to profit from raising prices above competitive levels, demand for the product must be sufficiently inelastic such that any loss in sales will be more than offset by increases in revenue on those sales that are made. Otherwise, increased prices would result in declining sales, revenues, and profits as customers purchased substitute products or declined to buy altogether. Inelastic demand is a market characteristic that facilitates collusion, allowing producers to raise their prices without triggering customer substitution and lost sales revenue.

157. Demand for Defendants' Amitriptyline products is inelastic largely because, while they are interchangeable with one another, they are not interchangeable with—and cannot be substituted for—other products given their pharmacological characteristics and regulatory status. Amitriptyline is a unique product that is an important and medically necessary drug for millions of people. It is prescribed to treat symptoms of depression as well as chronic pain from migraine headaches and other medical syndromes. Left untreated, symptoms of clinical depression and chronic pain treated by Amitriptyline can rapidly worsen, delaying or impeding recovery for those with serious health conditions. The result in such circumstances is often drug or alcohol dependency, chronic lack of sleep, and/or failing personal relationships and professional performance. Amitriptyline has been designated as an “Essential Medicine” by the World Health Organization. Doctors and their patients therefore regard Amitriptyline as a medical necessity that must be purchased without regard to an increase in price. Because other products are not substitutes for Amitriptyline, when Defendants increased their Amitriptyline prices, consumers could not simply select less-expensive alternative products.

158. As a result, Defendants' extraordinary price increases did not lead to corresponding decreases in sales volume that would have offset the price increases.

159. This inelastic demand gave Defendants significant pricing power, as well as an incentive to collude.

160. In short, Amitriptyline is an excellent candidate for cartelization because price increases will result in more revenue, rather than less, provided that most or all manufacturers participate.

4. Lack of Substitutes

161. While other tricyclic antidepressants on the market seek to treat similar conditions, Amitriptyline is often the only effective medicine that is reasonably available or medically suitable to patients in need.

162. Amitriptyline is also differentiated from other drug products because of its regulatory status. A generic drug is considered a therapeutic equivalent of—and AB-rated with respect to—the Reference Listed Drug (RLD) (often the brand name version of a drug). Defendants' Amitriptyline products are not therapeutically equivalent to—or AB-rated with respect to—other drug products, even similar ones. Thus, a patient prescribed Amitriptyline could not purchase a different drug using his or her Amitriptyline prescription, regardless of the respective prices of the drugs.

163. In addition, the branded version of Amitriptyline does not serve as economic substitute for generic versions of Amitriptyline because branded products generally maintain substantial price premiums over their generic counterparts, making them inapt substitutes even when generic prices soar. Elavil—the branded version of Amitriptyline—was discontinued by AstraZeneca in 2003.

164. Thus, purchasers of generic Amitriptyline are held captive to the supracompetitive prices that resulted from Defendants' conspiracy to fix prices and allocate markets and customers.

5. Standardized Product with High Degree of Interchangeability

165. A commodity-like product is one that is standardized across suppliers and allows for a high degree of substitutability among different suppliers in the market. When products offered by different suppliers are viewed as interchangeable by purchasers, it is easier for the suppliers to agree on prices for the goods in question and to monitor those prices effectively.

166. Generic drugs of the same chemical composition are effectively commodity products because the primary mechanism through which they compete is price. When approving an ANDA, the FDA confirms that a generic drug product is bioequivalent to the branded version of the drug. This allows pharmacists to substitute that generic for the branded counterpart, as well as for any other generic that also is bioequivalent to the branded product.

167. Defendants' Amitriptyline products are bioequivalent generics of their branded counterparts, enabling pharmacists to substitute them for branded products, and for one another.

168. Moreover, because Amitriptyline products are interchangeable, there is little utility in attempting to distinguish the products based on quality, branding or service. Accordingly, manufacturers generally spend little effort advertising or detailing (the practice of providing promotional materials and free samples to physicians) their generic compounds. The primary means for one generic manufacturer to differentiate its product from another's is through price competition.⁷³ The need to compete on price can drive producers of commodity products to conspire—as they did here—to fix prices.

⁷³ See, e.g., GAO Report at 23 (“If another manufacturer offers a lower price to a customer, manufacturers we interviewed indicated that they are usually asked to match it or risk losing market share to the other manufacturer.”).

6. Inter-competitor Contacts and Communications

169. As detailed above, Defendants’ representatives met at conferences convened by customers and trade associations of customers (such as the ECRM, GPhA, HDMA, and NACDS), private industry dinners, and similar events. Moreover, Defendants are members of and/or participants of the GPhA; thus, their representatives have many opportunities to meet and conspire at industry meetings. As noted in press reports, “[P]rosecutors are taking a close look at trade associations as part of their investigation as having been one potential avenue for facilitating the collusion between salespeople at different generic producers.”⁷⁴

170. The State AG Complaint alleges that Defendants routinely coordinated their schemes through direct interaction with their competitors at industry trade shows, customer conferences, and other events. For example, Defendants Glazer and Malek admitted at their guilty plea hearings to engaging in discussions and attending meetings with competitors, during which they reached agreements to allocate customers, rig bids and fix prices of doxycycline hyclate and glyburide.

171. DOJ’s and the Connecticut AG’s investigations, and the grand jury subpoenas and investigative demands that have issued in conjunction with them, focus on inter-competitor communications. These types of communications are not unique or isolated, but are rampant; “[g]eneric drug manufacturers operate, through their respective senior leadership and marketing and sales executives, in a manner that fosters and promotes routine and direct interaction among their competitors.”⁷⁵ The sheer number of companies implicated in the investigations highlights the prevalence in the generic drug industry of the types of contacts and communications that facilitate collusion. In addition to the Defendants named in this Complaint, the following companies have also been identified as targets of government investigations:

(a) Actavis: In February 2016, Actavis's former parent, Allergan plc, disclosed that it received a DOJ subpoena "seeking information relating to the marketing and pricing of certain of the Company's generic products and communications with competitors about such products."⁷⁶

(b) Aurobindo: Aurobindo has disclosed receipt of a subpoena relating to DOJ's generic drug investigation.⁷⁷ The company stated that it "received a subpoena in Mar[ch] 2016 requesting non-product specific information."⁷⁸

(c) Citron: In December 2016, Aceto Corporation (which purchased Citron's generic drugs assets) disclosed that DOJ "executed a search warrant against the Company and also served a subpoena requesting documents and other information concerning potential antitrust violations in the sale of Glyburide, Glyburide/Metformin, and Fosinopril HCTZ products." The Connecticut AG requested that Citron produce all documents produced to DOJ.⁷⁹

(d) Dr. Reddy's: In November 2016, Dr. Reddy's disclosed that it received subpoenas from DOJ and the Connecticut AG "seeking information relating to the marketing,

(e) Heritage: As a private company, Heritage is not required to make public disclosures. (f) Impax: In July 2014, Impax disclosed that it received a subpoena from the Connecticut AG concerning sales of generic digoxin.⁸² In November 2014, Impax disclosed that an employee received a broader federal grand jury subpoena that requested testimony and documents about “any communication or correspondence with any competitor (or an employee of any competitor) in the sale of generic prescription medications.”⁸³ In February 2016, Impax disclosed that it received a DOJ subpoena requesting “information and documents regarding the sales, marketing, and pricing of certain generic prescription medications. X. THE STATUTES OF LIMITATIONS DO NOT BAR PLAINTIFFS' CLAIMS

A. The Statutes of Limitations Did Not Begin to Run Because Plaintiffs Did Not and Could Not Discover Defendants' Unlawful Conspiracy

172. Plaintiffs had no knowledge of the combination or conspiracy alleged herein, or of facts sufficient to place them on inquiry notice of the claims set forth herein, until (at the earliest) Defendants' disclosures of the existence of the government investigations and subpoenas. Prior to that time, no information in the public domain or available to Plaintiffs suggested that any Defendant was involved in a criminal conspiracy to fix prices for Amitriptyline. And indeed, Defendants' disclosures regarding the government investigations did not indicate Amitriptyline specifically.

173. Plaintiffs are purchasers who indirectly purchased Amitriptyline manufactured by one or more Defendants. They had no direct contact or interaction with any of the Defendants in this case and had no means from which they could have discovered Defendants' conspiracy.

174. Defendants repeatedly and expressly stated throughout the Class Period, including on their public Internet websites, that they maintained antitrust/fair competition policies which prohibited the type of collusion alleged in this Complaint. For example:

- (a) Mylan's Code of Conduct and Business Ethics states: "Mylan is committed to complying with applicable antitrust and fair competition laws."⁹⁶
- (b) Par's Code of Conduct provides: "It is Company policy to comply with the antitrust and competition laws of each country in which the Company does business."⁹⁷

⁹⁷ Par Code of Ethics, available at http://corpdocs.msci.com/ethics/eth_19100.pdf.

- (c) Novartis's (the parent of Sandoz) Code of Conduct provides: "We are committed to fair competition and will not breach competition laws and regulations."⁹⁸

175. It was reasonable for members of the Class to believe that Defendants were complying with their own antitrust policies.

176. For these reasons, the statutes of limitations as to Plaintiffs' claims under the federal and state common laws identified herein did not begin to run, and have been tolled with respect to the claims that Plaintiffs have alleged in this Complaint.

B. Fraudulent Concealment Tolled the Statutes of Limitations

177. In the alternative, application of the doctrine of fraudulent concealment tolled the statutes of limitations on the claims asserted by Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs had no knowledge of the combination or conspiracy alleged in this Complaint, or of facts sufficient to place them on inquiry notice of their claims, until Defendants disclosed the existence of government investigations and subpoenas. Prior to that time, no information in the public domain or available to Plaintiffs suggested that any Defendant was involved in a criminal conspiracy to fix prices for Amitriptyline.

178. Defendants actively concealed, suppressed, and omitted to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Classes concerning Defendants' unlawful activities to artificially inflate prices for Amitriptyline. The concealed, suppressed, and omitted facts would have been important to Plaintiffs and members of the Classes as they related to the cost of Amitriptyline they purchased. Defendants misrepresented the real cause of price increases and/or the absence of price reductions in Amitriptyline. Defendants' false statements and conduct concerning the prices of Amitriptyline were deceptive as they had the tendency or capacity to mislead Plaintiffs and members of the Classes to believe that they were purchasing Amitriptyline at prices established by a free and fair market.

1. Active Concealment of the Conspiracy

179. Defendants engaged in an illegal scheme to fix prices, allocate customers and rig bids. Criminal and civil penalties for engaging in such conduct are severe. Not surprisingly, Defendants took affirmative measures to conceal their conspiratorial conduct.

180. Through their misleading, deceptive, false and fraudulent statements, Defendants effectively concealed their conspiracy, thereby causing economic harm to Plaintiffs and the Classes. Defendants' misrepresentations regarding their price changes were intended to lull Plaintiffs and the Classes into accepting the price hikes as a normal result of competitive and economic market trends rather than as the consequence of Defendants' collusive acts. The public statements made by Defendants were designed to mislead Plaintiffs and the Classes into paying unjustifiably higher prices for Amitriptyline.

181. As explained in the State AG complaint, the nature of the generic drug industry—which allows for frequent and repeated face-to-face meetings among competitors—means that “Most of the conspiratorial communications were intentionally done in person or by cell phone, in an attempt to avoid creating a record of their illegal conduct. The generic drug industry, through the aforementioned opportunities to collude at trade shows, customer events and smaller more intimate dinners and meetings, allowed these communications to perpetuate.”⁹⁹

⁹⁹ State AG Complaint ¶ 13.

2. Plaintiffs Exercised Reasonable Diligence

182. Defendants' anticompetitive conspiracy, by its very nature, was self-concealing. Generic drugs are not exempt from antitrust regulation, and thus, before the disclosure of the government investigations, Plaintiffs reasonably considered the market to be competitive. Accordingly, a reasonable person under the circumstances would not have been alerted to investigate the legitimacy of Defendants' prices before these disclosures.

183. Because of the deceptive practices and techniques of secrecy employed by Defendants and their co-conspirators to conceal their illicit conduct, Plaintiffs and the Classes could not have discovered the conspiracy at an earlier date by the exercise of reasonable diligence.

184. Therefore, the running of any statutes of limitations has been tolled for all claims alleged by Plaintiffs and the Classes as a result of Defendants' anticompetitive and unlawful conduct. Despite the exercise of reasonable diligence, Plaintiffs and Members of the Classes were unaware of Defendants' unlawful conduct, and did not know that they were paying supracompetitive prices throughout the United States during the Class Period.

185. For these reasons, Plaintiffs' claims are timely under all of the federal, state and common laws identified herein.

XI. CONTINUING VIOLATIONS

186. This Complaint alleges a continuing course of conduct (including conduct within the limitations periods), and defendants' unlawful conduct has inflicted continuing and accumulating harm within the applicable statutes of limitations. Thus, Plaintiffs and the members of the Damages Class can recover for damages that they suffered during any applicable limitations period.

XII. DEFENDANTS' ANTITRUST VIOLATIONS

187. During the Class Period, set forth below, Defendants engaged in a continuing agreement, understanding, and conspiracy in restraint of trade to allocate customers, rig bids, and fix raise and/or stabilize prices for Amitriptyline sold in the United States.

188. In formulating and effectuating the contract, combination or conspiracy, Defendants identified above and their co-conspirators engaged in anticompetitive activities, the purpose and effect of which were to allocate customers, rig bids and artificially fix, raise, maintain, and/or stabilize the price of Amitriptyline sold in the United States. These activities included the following:

(a) Defendants participated in meetings and/or conversations regarding the price of Amitriptyline in the United States;

(b) Defendants agreed during those meetings and conversations to charge prices at specified levels and otherwise to increase and/or maintain prices of Amitriptyline sold in the United States;

(c) Defendants agreed during those meetings and conversations to allocate customers, rig bids, and fix the price of Amitriptyline; and

(d) Defendants issued price announcements and price quotations in accordance with their agreements.

189. Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in the activities described above for the purpose of effectuating the unlawful agreements described in this Complaint.

190. During and throughout the period of the conspiracy alleged in this Complaint, Plaintiffs and members of the Classes indirectly purchased Amitriptyline at inflated and supracompetitive prices.

191. Defendants' contract, combination and conspiracy constitutes an unreasonable restraint of trade and commerce in violation of Sections 1 and 3 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. §§ 1, 3) and the laws of various End-Payer Damages Jurisdictions enumerated below.

192. As a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs and the other members of the Classes have been injured in their business and property in that they have paid more for Amitriptyline than they would have paid in competitive markets.

193. General economic principles recognize that any overcharge at a higher level of distribution generally results in higher prices at every level below. Moreover, the institutional structure of pricing and regulation in the pharmaceutical drug industry assures that overcharges at the higher level of distribution are passed on to end-payers such as Plaintiffs. Wholesalers and retailers passed on the inflated prices to Plaintiffs and members of the Class. The impairment of generic competition at the direct purchaser level similarly injured Plaintiffs who were equally denied the opportunity to purchase less expensive generic versions Amitriptyline.

194. The unlawful contract, combination and conspiracy has had the following effects, among others:

(a) price competition in the market for Amitriptyline has been artificially restrained;

(b) prices for Amitriptyline sold by Defendants have been raised, fixed, maintained, or stabilized at artificially high and non-competitive levels; and

(c) end-payer purchasers of Amitriptyline sold by Defendants have been deprived of the benefit of free and open competition in the market for Amitriptyline.

XIII. CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

195. Plaintiffs bring this action on behalf of themselves and as a class action under Rule 23(a) and (b)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, seeking equitable and injunctive relief on behalf of the following class (the “Nationwide Class”):

All persons and entities in the United States and its territories who indirectly purchased, paid and/or provided reimbursement for some or all of the purchase price for Defendants’ Amitriptyline products (generic amitriptyline hydrochloride 10, 25, 50, 75, 100, or 150mg tablets), other than for resale, from May 2014 through the present.

This class excludes: (a) Defendants, their officers, directors, management, employees, subsidiaries, and affiliates; (b) all federal and state governmental entities except for cities, towns, municipalities, or counties with self-funded prescription drug plans; (c) all persons or entities who purchased Defendants’ Amitriptyline products for purposes of resale or directly from Defendants; (d) fully insured health plans (i.e., health plans that purchased insurance covering 100% of their reimbursement obligation to members); (e) any “flat co-pay” consumers whose purchases of Defendants’ Amitriptyline products were paid in part by a third party payer and whose co-payment was the same regardless of the retail purchase price; (f) pharmacy benefit managers; and (g) any judges or justices involved in this action and any members of their immediate families.

196. Plaintiffs also bring this action on behalf of themselves and as a class action under Rule 23(a) and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure seeking damages pursuant to the common law of unjust enrichment and the state antitrust, unfair competition, and consumer protection laws of the states and territories listed below (the “End-Payer Damages Jurisdictions”)¹⁰⁰ on behalf of the following class (the “Damages Class”):

All persons and entities in the End-Payer Damages Jurisdictions who indirectly purchased, paid and/or provided reimbursement for some or all of the purchase price for Defendants’ Amitriptyline products (generic amitriptyline hydrochloride 10, 25, 50, 75, 100, or 150mg tablets), other than for resale, from May 2014 through the present.

This class excludes: (a) Defendants, their officers, directors, management, employees, subsidiaries, and affiliates; (b) all federal and state governmental entities except for cities, towns, municipalities, or counties with self-funded prescription drug plans; (c) all persons or entities who purchased Defendants' Amitriptyline products for purposes of resale or directly from Defendants; (d) fully insured health plans (i.e., health plans that purchased insurance covering 100% of their reimbursement obligation to members); (e) any "flat co-pay" consumers whose purchases of Defendants' Amitriptyline products were paid in part by a third party payer and whose co-payment was the same regardless of the retail purchase price; (f) pharmacy benefit managers; and (g) any judges or justices involved in this action and any members of their immediate families.

197. The Nationwide Class and the Damages Class are referred to herein as the "Classes."

198. While Plaintiffs do not know the exact number of the members of the Classes, Plaintiffs believe there are thousands of members in each Class.

199. Common questions of law and fact exist as to all members of the Classes. This is particularly true given the nature of Defendants' conspiracy, which was generally applicable to all the members of both Classes, thereby making appropriate relief with respect to the Classes as a whole. Such questions of law and fact common to the Classes include, but are not limited to:

(a) Whether Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in a combination and conspiracy among themselves to fix, raise, maintain and/or stabilize prices of Amitriptyline and/or engaged in market allocation for Amitriptyline sold in the United States;

(b) The identity of the participants of the alleged conspiracy;

(c) The duration of the alleged conspiracy and the acts carried out by Defendants and their co-conspirators in furtherance of the conspiracy;

(d) Whether the alleged conspiracy violated the Sherman Act, as alleged in the First Count;

(e) Whether the alleged conspiracy violated state antitrust and unfair competition laws, and/or state consumer protection laws, as alleged in the Second and Third Counts;

(f) Whether Defendants unjustly enriched themselves to the detriment of the Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes, thereby entitling Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes to disgorgement of all benefits derived by Defendants, as alleged in the Fourth Count;

(g) Whether the conduct of Defendants and their co-conspirators, as alleged in this Complaint, caused injury to the business or property of Plaintiffs and the members of the Classes;

(h) The effect of the alleged conspiracy on the prices of Amitriptyline sold in the United States during the Class Period;

(i) Whether the Defendants and their co-conspirators actively concealed, suppressed, and omitted to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Classes concerning Defendants' unlawful activities to artificially inflate prices for Amitriptyline, and/or fraudulently concealed the unlawful conspiracy's existence from Plaintiffs and the other members of the Classes;

(j) The appropriate injunctive and related equitable relief for the Nationwide Class; and

(k) The appropriate class-wide measure of damages for the Damages Class.

200. Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of the members of the Classes. Plaintiffs and all members of the Classes are similarly affected by Defendants' wrongful conduct in that they paid artificially inflated prices for Amitriptyline purchased indirectly from Defendants and/or their co-conspirators. Plaintiffs' claims arise out of the same common course of conduct giving rise to the claims of the other members of the Classes.

201. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Classes. Plaintiffs' interests are coincident with, and not antagonistic to, those of the other members of the Classes. Plaintiffs are represented by counsel who are competent and experienced in the prosecution of antitrust and class action litigation.

202. The questions of law and fact common to the members of the Classes predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, including legal and factual issues relating to liability and damages.

203. Class action treatment is a superior method for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy, in that, among other things, such treatment will permit a large number of similarly situated persons to prosecute their common claims in a single forum simultaneously, efficiently and without the unnecessary duplication of evidence, effort and expense that numerous individual actions would engender. The benefits of proceeding through the class mechanism, including providing injured persons or entities with a method for obtaining redress for claims that might not be practicable to pursue individually, substantially outweigh any difficulties that may arise in management of this class action.

204. The prosecution of separate actions by individual members of the Classes would create a risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants.

As to All Jurisdictions Above

248. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class in each of the above jurisdictions have been injured in their business and property by reason of Defendants' unlawful combination, contract, conspiracy and agreement. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class have paid

California

255. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of California Business and Professions Code § 17200, et seq. During the Class Period, Defendants manufactured, marketed, sold, or distributed generic Amitriptyline in California, and committed and continue to commit acts of unfair competition, as defined by § 17200, et seq. of the California Business and Professions Code, by engaging in the acts and practices specified above. This claim is instituted pursuant to §§ 17203 and 17204 of the California Business and Professions Code, to obtain restitution from these Defendants for acts, as alleged herein, that violated § 17200 of the California Business and Professions Code, commonly known as the Unfair Competition Law. Defendants' conduct as alleged herein violated § 17200. The acts, omissions, misrepresentations, practices and non-disclosures of Defendants, as alleged herein, constituted a common, continuous, and continuing course of conduct of unfair competition by means of unfair, unlawful, and/or fraudulent business acts or practices within the meaning of California Business and Professions Code §17200, et seq., including, but not limited to, the following: (1) the violations of Section 1 of the Sherman Act, as set forth above; (2) the violations of § 16720, et seq. of the California Business and Professions Code, set forth above. Defendants' acts, omissions, misrepresentations, practices, and non-disclosures, as described above, whether or not in violation of § 16720, et seq. of the California Business and Professions Code, and whether or not concerted or independent acts, are otherwise unfair, unconscionable, unlawful or fraudulent; (3) Defendants' acts or practices are unfair to purchasers of generic Amitriptyline in the State of California within the meaning of § 17200, California Business and Professions Code; and (4) Defendants' acts and practices are fraudulent or deceptive within the meaning of Section 17200 of the California Business and Professions Code. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class are entitled to full restitution and/or disgorgement of all revenues, earnings, profits, compensation, and benefits that have been obtained by Defendants as a result of such business acts or practices. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected California commerce and consumers. The illegal conduct alleged herein is continuing and there is no indication that Defendants will not continue such activity into the future. The unlawful and unfair business practices of Defendants, and each of them, as described above, have caused and continue to cause Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class to pay supracompetitive and artificially-inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class suffered injury in fact and lost money or property as a result of such unfair competition. The conduct of Defendants as alleged in this Complaint violates § 17200 of the California Business and Professions Code. As alleged in this Complaint, Defendants and their co-conspirators have been unjustly enriched as a result of their wrongful conduct and by Defendants' unfair competition. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class are accordingly entitled to equitable relief including restitution and/or disgorgement of all revenues, earnings, profits, compensation, and benefits that may have been obtained by Defendants as a result of such business practices, pursuant to the California Business and Professions Code, §§17203 and 17204.

Stat. § 6-1-101, et seq. Defendants engaged in an unfair and deceptive trade practices during the course of their business dealings, which significantly impacted Plaintiffs as actual or potential consumers of the Defendants' goods and which caused Plaintiffs to suffer injury. Defendants took efforts to conceal their agreements from Plaintiffs. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Colorado; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Colorado; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Colorado commerce and consumers. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class have been injured and are threatened with further injury. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Colorado Rev. Stat. § 6-1-101, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Class seek all relief available under that statute and as equity demands.

Delaware

257. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of the Delaware Consumer Fraud Act, 6 Del. Code § 2511, et seq. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce in Delaware, by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which generic Amitriptyline were sold, distributed, or obtained in Delaware. Defendants deliberately failed to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class concerning Defendants' unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. Defendants misrepresented to all purchasers during the Class Period that Defendants' generic Amitriptyline prices were competitive and fair. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Delaware; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Delaware; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Delaware commerce and consumers. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' violations of law, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class suffered an ascertainable loss of money or property as a result of Defendants' use or employment of unconscionable and deceptive commercial practices as set forth above. That loss was caused by Defendants' willful and deceptive conduct, as described herein. Defendants' deception, including their affirmative misrepresentations and omissions concerning the price of generic Amitriptyline, likely misled all purchasers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing generic Amitriptyline at prices set by a free and fair market. Defendants' misleading conduct and unconscionable activities constitute violations of 6 Del. Code § 2511, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

District of Columbia

258. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of District of Columbia Code § 28-3901, et seq. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining, at artificial and/or non-competitive levels, the prices at which generic Amitriptyline were sold, distributed or obtained in the District of Columbia. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected District of Columbia commerce and consumers. The foregoing conduct constitutes "unlawful trade practices," within the meaning of D.C. Code § 28-3904. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were not aware of Defendants' price-fixing conspiracy and were therefore unaware that they were being unfairly and illegally overcharged. Defendants had the sole power to set that price and Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class had no power to negotiate a lower price. Moreover, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class lacked any meaningful choice in purchasing generic

Amitriptyline because they were unaware of the unlawful overcharge, and there was no alternative source of supply through which Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class could avoid the overcharges. Defendants' conduct with regard to sales of generic Amitriptyline, including their illegal conspiracy to secretly fix the price of generic Amitriptyline at supracompetitive levels and overcharge consumers, was substantively unconscionable because it was one-sided and unfairly benefited Defendants at the expense of Plaintiffs and the public. Defendants took grossly unfair advantage of Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class. The suppression of competition that has resulted from Defendants' conspiracy has ultimately resulted in unconscionably higher prices for purchasers so that there was a gross disparity between the price paid and the value received for generic Amitriptyline. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout the District of Columbia; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout the District of Columbia; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' conduct, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class have been injured and are threatened with further injury. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of District of Columbia Code § 28-3901, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

Defendants deliberately failed to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class concerning Defendants' unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. Defendants misrepresented to all purchasers during the Class Period that Defendants' generic Amitriptyline prices were competitive and fair. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Georgia; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Georgia; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Georgia commerce and consumers. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' violations of law, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class suffered an ascertainable loss of money or property as a result of Defendants' use or employment of unconscionable and deceptive commercial practices as set forth above and are threatened with further injury. That loss was caused by Defendants' willful and deceptive conduct, as described herein. Defendants' deception, including their affirmative misrepresentations and omissions concerning the price of generic Amitriptyline, likely misled all purchasers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing generic Amitriptyline at prices set by a free and fair market. Defendants' misleading conduct and unconscionable activities constitute violations of Georgia law, and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute and as equity demands.

Laws, Ch 93A, § 1, et seq. Defendants were engaged in trade or commerce as defined by G.L. 93A. Defendants, in a market that includes Massachusetts, agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining at non-competitive and artificially inflated levels, the prices at which generic Amitriptyline were sold, distributed, or obtained in Massachusetts and took efforts to conceal their agreements from Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class. Defendants deliberately failed to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class concerning Defendants' unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. Defendants misrepresented to all purchasers during the Class Period that Defendants' generic Amitriptyline prices were competitive and fair. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Michigan; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Michigan; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. That loss was caused by Defendants' willful and deceptive conduct, as described herein. Defendants' deception, including their affirmative misrepresentations and omissions concerning the price of generic Amitriptyline, likely misled all purchasers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing generic Amitriptyline at prices set by a free and fair market. Compiled Laws § 445.903, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Minnesota; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Minnesota commerce and consumers. Defendants engaged in the conduct described herein in connection with the sale of generic Amitriptyline in trade or commerce in a market that includes Missouri. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact affect, fix, control, and/or maintain, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which generic Amitriptyline were sold, distributed, or obtained in Missouri, which conduct constituted unfair practices in that it was unlawful under federal and state law, violated public policy, was unethical, oppressive and unscrupulous, and caused substantial injury to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class. Defendants concealed, suppressed, and omitted to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class concerning Defendants' unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. The concealed, suppressed, and omitted facts would have been important to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class as they related to the cost of generic Amitriptyline they purchased. Defendants misrepresented the real cause of price increases and/or the absence of price reductions in generic Amitriptyline by making public statements that were not in accord with the facts. Defendants' statements and conduct concerning the price of generic Amitriptyline were deceptive as they had the tendency or capacity to mislead Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class to believe that they were purchasing generic Amitriptyline at prices established by a free and fair market. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Missouri; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Missouri; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. Stat. § 598.0903, et seq. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce in Nevada, by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which generic Amitriptyline were sold, distributed, or obtained in Nevada. Defendants deliberately failed to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class concerning Defendants' unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. Defendants misrepresented to all purchasers during the Class Period that Defendants' generic Amitriptyline prices were competitive and fair. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout Nevada; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout Nevada; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on Nevada commerce and consumers. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' violations of law, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class suffered an ascertainable loss of money or property as a result of Defendants' use or employment of unconscionable and deceptive commercial practices as set forth above. That loss was caused by Defendants' willful and deceptive conduct, as described herein. Defendants' deception, including their affirmative misrepresentations and omissions concerning the price of generic Amitriptyline, likely misled all purchasers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing generic Amitriptyline at prices set by a free and fair market. Defendants' misleading conduct and unconscionable activities constitute violations of Nev. Rev. Stat. § 598.0903, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

New Hampshire

269. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of the New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act, N.H. Rev. Stat. § 358-A:1, et seq. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout New Hampshire; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout New Hampshire; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages

Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants marketed, sold, or distributed generic Amitriptyline in New Hampshire, and Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected New Hampshire commerce and consumers. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful conduct, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class have been injured. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of N.H. Rev. Stat. § 358-A:1, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

New Jersey

270. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of the New Jersey Consumer Fraud Act, N.J. Statutes § 56:8-1, et seq. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce in New Jersey, by affecting, fixing, controlling, and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which generic Amitriptyline were sold, distributed, or obtained in New Jersey. Defendants deliberately failed to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class concerning Defendants' unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. Defendants misrepresented to all purchasers during the Class Period that Defendants' generic Amitriptyline prices were competitive and fair. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout New Jersey; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout New Jersey; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4)

Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on New Jersey commerce and consumers. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' violations of law, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class suffered an ascertainable loss of money or property as a result of Defendants' use or employment of unconscionable and deceptive commercial practices as set forth above. That loss was caused by Defendants' willful and deceptive conduct, as described herein. Defendants' deception, including their affirmative misrepresentations and omissions concerning the price of generic Amitriptyline, likely misled all purchasers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing generic Amitriptyline at prices set by a free and fair market. Defendants' misleading conduct and unconscionable activities constitute violations of N.J. Statutes § 56:8-1, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

New Mexico

271. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of the New Mexico Stat. § 57-12-1, et seq. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining at non-competitive and artificially inflated levels, the prices at which generic Amitriptyline were sold, distributed or obtained in New Mexico and took efforts to conceal their agreements from Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class. The aforementioned conduct on the part of Defendants constituted "unconscionable trade practices," in violation of New Mexico Stat. § 57-12-3, in that such conduct, inter alia, resulted in a gross disparity between the value received by Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class and the prices paid by them for generic Amitriptyline as set forth in New Mexico Stat. § 57-12-2E. Plaintiffs and members of the

Damages Class were not aware of Defendants' price-fixing conspiracy and were therefore unaware that they were being unfairly and illegally overcharged. Defendants had the sole power to set that price, and Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class had no power to negotiate a lower price. Moreover, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class lacked any meaningful choice in purchasing generic Amitriptyline because they were unaware of the unlawful overcharge, and there was no alternative source of supply through which Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class could avoid the overcharges. Defendants' conduct with regard to sales of generic Amitriptyline, including their illegal conspiracy to secretly fix the price of generic Amitriptyline at supracompetitive levels and overcharge consumers, was substantively unconscionable because it was one-sided and unfairly benefited Defendants at the expense of Plaintiffs and the public. Defendants took grossly unfair advantage of Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class. The suppression of competition that has resulted from Defendants' conspiracy has ultimately resulted in unconscionably higher prices for consumers so that there was a gross disparity between the price paid and the value received for generic Amitriptyline. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout New Mexico; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout New Mexico; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected New Mexico commerce and consumers. As a direct and proximate result of the unlawful conduct of Defendants, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class have been injured and are threatened with further injury. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of New Mexico Stat. § 57-12-1, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

New York

272. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349, et seq. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which generic Amitriptyline were sold, distributed or obtained in New York and took efforts to conceal their agreements from Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class. Defendants and their co-conspirators made public statements about the prices of generic Amitriptyline that either omitted material information that rendered the statements that they made materially misleading or affirmatively misrepresented the real cause of price increases for generic Amitriptyline; and Defendants alone possessed material information that was relevant to consumers, but failed to provide the information. Because of Defendants' unlawful trade practices in the State of New York, New York class members who indirectly purchased generic Amitriptyline were misled to believe that they were paying a fair price for generic Amitriptyline or the price increases for generic Amitriptyline were for valid business reasons; and similarly situated consumers were affected by Defendants' conspiracy. Defendants knew that their unlawful trade practices with respect to pricing generic Amitriptyline would have an impact on New York consumers and not just Defendants' direct customers. Defendants knew that their unlawful trade practices with respect to pricing generic Amitriptyline would have a broad impact, causing consumer class members who indirectly purchased generic Amitriptyline to be injured by paying more for generic Amitriptyline than they would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful trade acts and practices. The conduct of Defendants described herein constitutes consumer-oriented deceptive acts or practices within the meaning of N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349, which resulted in consumer injury and broad adverse impact on the public at large, and harmed the public interest of consumers in New York State in an honest marketplace in which economic activity is conducted in a competitive manner. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout New York; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout New York; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants marketed, sold, or distributed generic Amitriptyline in New York, and Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected New York commerce and consumers. During the Class Period, each of Defendants named herein, directly, or indirectly and through affiliates they dominated and controlled, manufactured, sold and/or distributed generic Amitriptyline in New York. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available pursuant to N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349(h).

North Carolina

273. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, or deceptive acts or practices in violation of North Carolina Gen. Stat. § 75-1.1, et seq. Defendants agreed to, and did in fact, act in restraint of trade or commerce by affecting, fixing, controlling and/or maintaining, at artificial and non-competitive levels, the prices at which generic Amitriptyline were sold, distributed or obtained in North Carolina and took efforts to conceal their agreements from Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class. Defendants' price-fixing conspiracy could not have succeeded absent deceptive conduct by Defendants to cover up their illegal acts. Secrecy was integral to the formation, implementation and maintenance of Defendants' price-fixing conspiracy. Defendants committed inherently deceptive and self-concealing actions, of which Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class could not possibly have been aware. Defendants and their co-conspirators publicly provided pretextual and false justifications regarding their price increases. Defendants' public statements concerning the price of generic Amitriptyline created the illusion of competitive pricing controlled by market forces rather than supracompetitive pricing driven by Defendants' illegal conspiracy. Moreover, Defendants deceptively concealed their unlawful activities by mutually agreeing not to divulge the existence of the conspiracy to outsiders. The conduct of Defendants described herein constitutes consumer-oriented deceptive acts or practices within the meaning of North Carolina law, which resulted in consumer injury and broad adverse impact on the public at large, and harmed the public interest of North Carolina consumers in an honest marketplace in which economic activity is conducted in a competitive manner. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout North Carolina; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout North Carolina; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. During the Class Period, Defendants marketed, sold, or distributed generic Amitriptyline in North Carolina, and Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected North Carolina commerce and consumers. During the Class Period, each of Defendants named herein, directly, or indirectly and through affiliates they dominated and controlled, manufactured, sold and/or distributed generic Amitriptyline in North Carolina. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek actual damages for their injuries caused by these violations in an amount to be determined at trial and are threatened with further injury. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of North Carolina Gen. Stat. § 75-1.1, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

North Dakota

Defendants deliberately failed to disclose material facts to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class concerning Defendants' unlawful activities and artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline. Defendants misrepresented to all purchasers during the Class Period that Defendants' generic Amitriptyline prices were competitive and fair. Defendants' unlawful conduct had the following effects: (1) generic Amitriptyline price competition was restrained, suppressed, and eliminated throughout North Dakota; (2) generic Amitriptyline prices were raised, fixed, maintained, and stabilized at artificially high levels throughout North Dakota; (3) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class were deprived of free and open competition; and (4) Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class paid supracompetitive, artificially inflated prices for generic Amitriptyline.

During the Class Period, Defendants' illegal conduct had a substantial effect on North Dakota commerce and consumers. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' violations of law, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class suffered an ascertainable loss of money or property as a result of Defendants' use or employment of unconscionable and deceptive commercial practices as set forth above. That loss was caused by Defendants' willful and deceptive conduct, as described herein. Defendants' deception, including their affirmative misrepresentations and omissions concerning the price of generic Amitriptyline, likely misled all purchasers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing generic Amitriptyline at prices set by a free and fair market. Defendants' misleading conduct and unconscionable activities constitute violations of N.D. Century Code § 51-15-01, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

silence. Defendants misrepresented to all purchasers during the Class Period that Defendants' generic Amitriptyline prices were competitive and fair. Defendants' illegal conduct substantially affected Rhode Island commerce and consumers. Laws. § 6-13.1-1, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute.

Defendants' deception, including their affirmative misrepresentations and omissions concerning the price of generic Amitriptyline, likely misled all purchasers acting reasonably under the circumstances to believe that they were purchasing generic Amitriptyline at prices set by a free and fair market. Defendants' affirmative misrepresentations and omissions constitute information important to Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class as they related to the cost of generic Amitriptyline they purchased. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of 12A V.I.C. §§ 102, 301-35, et seq., and, accordingly, Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class seek all relief available under that statute and as equity demands.

FOURTH COUNT

Unjust Enrichment¹⁰³
(on behalf of Plaintiffs and the Damages Class)

284. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference the allegations set forth above as if fully set forth herein.

285. To the extent required, this claim is pleaded in the alternative to the other claims in this Complaint.

286. Defendants have unlawfully benefited from their sales of Amitriptyline because of the unlawful and inequitable acts alleged in this Complaint. Defendants unlawfully overcharged End-payers, who made purchases of or reimbursements for Amitriptyline at prices that were more than they would have been but for Defendants' unlawful actions.

287. Defendants' financial benefits resulting from their unlawful and inequitable acts are traceable to overpayments by Plaintiffs and the Damages Class.

288. Plaintiffs and the Damages Class have conferred upon Defendants an economic benefit, in the nature of profits resulting from unlawful overcharges, to the economic detriment of Plaintiffs and the Damages Class.

289. Defendants have been enriched by revenue resulting from unlawful overcharges for Amitriptyline while Plaintiffs and the Damages Class have been impoverished by the overcharges they paid for Amitriptyline imposed through Defendants' unlawful conduct. Defendants' enrichment and Plaintiffs' and the Damages Class's impoverishment are connected.

290. There is no justification for Defendants' retention of, and enrichment from, the benefits they received, which caused impoverishment to Plaintiffs and the Damages Class, because Plaintiffs and the Damages Class paid supracompetitive prices that inured to Defendants' benefit, and it would be inequitable for Defendants to retain any revenue gained from their unlawful overcharges.

291. Plaintiffs and the Damages Class did not interfere with Defendants' affairs in any manner that conferred these benefits upon Defendants.

292. The benefits conferred upon Defendants were not gratuitous, in that they constituted revenue created by unlawful overcharges arising from Defendants' illegal and unfair actions to inflate the prices of Amitriptyline.

293. The benefits conferred upon Defendants are measurable, in that the revenue Defendants have earned due to their unlawful overcharges of Amitriptyline are ascertainable by review of sales records.

294. It would be futile for Plaintiffs and the Damages Class to seek a remedy from any party with whom they have privity of contract. Defendants have paid no consideration to any other person for any of the unlawful benefits they received indirectly from Plaintiffs and the Damages Class with respect to Defendants' sales of Amitriptyline.

295. It would be futile for Plaintiffs and the Damages Class to seek to exhaust any remedy against the immediate intermediary in the chain of distribution from which they indirectly purchased Amitriptyline, as the intermediaries are not liable and cannot reasonably be expected to compensate Plaintiffs and the Damages Class for Defendants' unlawful conduct.

296. The economic benefit of overcharges and monopoly profits derived by Defendants through charging supracompetitive and artificially inflated prices for Amitriptyline is a direct and proximate result of Defendants' unlawful practices.

297. The financial benefits derived by Defendants rightfully belong to Plaintiffs and the Damages Class, because Plaintiffs and the Damages Class paid supracompetitive prices during the Class Period, inuring to the benefit of Defendants.

298. It would be inequitable under unjust enrichment principles under the laws of all States (except Ohio and Indiana) and of the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands, for Defendants to be permitted to retain any of the overcharges for Amitriptyline derived from Defendants' unlawful, unfair and unconscionable methods, acts, and trade practices alleged in this Complaint.

299. Defendants are aware of and appreciate the benefits bestowed upon them by Plaintiffs and the Damages Class. Defendants consciously accepted the benefits and continue to do so as of the date of this filing.

300. Defendants should be compelled to disgorge in a common fund for the benefit of Plaintiffs and the Damages Class all unlawful or inequitable proceeds they received from their sales of Amitriptyline.

301. A constructive trust should be imposed upon all unlawful or inequitable sums received by Defendants traceable to indirect purchases of Amitriptyline by Plaintiffs and the Damages Class.

302. Plaintiffs and the Damages Class have no adequate remedy at law.

303. 354. Defendants unlawfully overcharged End-payers, who made purchases of or reimbursements for Amitriptyline in Wyoming at prices that were more than they would have been but for Defendants' actions. Plaintiffs and the Damages Class have conferred an economic benefit upon Defendants, in the nature of revenue resulting from unlawful overcharges to the economic detriment of Plaintiffs and the Damages Class. Defendants accepted, used and enjoyed the benefits bestowed upon them by Plaintiffs and the Damages Class. Under the circumstances, it would be inequitable for Defendants to retain such benefits without compensating Plaintiffs and the Damages Class.

U.S. Virgin Islands

355. Defendants unlawfully overcharged End-payers, who made purchases of or reimbursements for Amitriptyline in the United States Virgin Islands at prices that were more than they would have been but for Defendants' actions. Defendants have been enriched by revenue resulting from unlawful overcharges for Amitriptyline, which revenue resulted from anticompetitive prices paid by Plaintiffs and the Damages Class, which inured to Defendants' benefit. Defendants' enrichment has occurred at the expense of Plaintiffs and the Damages Class. Defendants appreciated the benefit bestowed upon them by Plaintiffs and the Damages Class. It is against equity and good conscience for Defendants to be permitted to retain the revenue resulting from their unlawful overcharges. Plaintiffs and the Damages Class have no remedy at law.

XV. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs demand judgment for the following relief:

1. The Court determine that this action may be maintained as a class action under Rule 23(a), (b)(2) and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and direct that reasonable Notice of this action, as provided by Rule 23(c)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, be given to each and every member of the Class;

3. Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class recover damages, to the maximum extent allowed under such state laws, and that a judgment in favor of Plaintiffs and members of the Damages Class be entered against Defendants jointly and severally in an amount to be trebled to the extent such laws permit;

6. Defendants, their affiliates, successors, transferees, assignees and other officers, directors, partners, agents and employees thereof, and all other persons acting or claiming to act on their behalf or in concert with them, be permanently enjoined and restrained from in any manner continuing, maintaining or renewing the conduct, contract, conspiracy, or combination alleged herein, or from entering into any other contract, conspiracy, or combination having a similar purpose or effect, and from adopting or following any practice, plan, program, or device having a similar purpose or effect;
